STOVES HISTORY

Founded on Valentine's Day 1920, Stoves begins a reputation for manufacturing excellence.

FOODIE DEVELOPMENT

Culinary evidence suggests our modern grilled cheese (consisting of processed cheese and sliced white bread) began in the 1920s.

Typical meals included steak and kidney pie, suet pudding with potatoes, peas or cabbage and baked ham with eggs.

NOTED CHEF

XAVIER MAREL BOULESTIN publishes Simple French Cooking for the English Home in 1923 - even reportedly teaching Winston Churchill recipes from the book. His Restaurant Boulestin is said to have been the most expensive restaurant in London in the 1920s.

HISTORIC EVENTS

Agatha Christie's first novel - The Mysterious Affair at Styles - is published in the UK on 21st January 1921, introducing Hercule Poirot. The first feature-length 'talkie' film, The Jazz Singer, premieres at the Piccadilly Theatre on 27th September 1928.

INTERIOR TRENDS

Cocktail parties become more popular than ever, which impacts interior décor as hosts strive to impress. Monochrome colour schemes, geometric prints, and minimalism become popular.
